Grampionship Game.

Jiampien-Sidney, Va., November 12.—
Hampien-Sidney plays the second of her championship games on Saturday with William and Mary. The second practice of the week was held this afternoon Goads Bernler took his men back to first principles, devoting half the time to tackling falling on the ball and blocking the dummy. It was gratifying to see how well some of the new men, who were having their first tasts of football, have perfected themselves in this part of the game. Following this workout, the varsity and scrubs lined up for a acrimmage of about twenty minutes' duration, the list ten being played by moonlight. It was at this time that Thurman got away for a touchdown for the second team, this being the lone score of the afternoon.

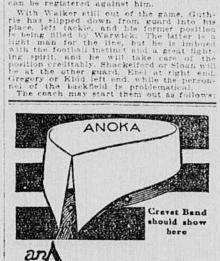

The varsity falled miserably in its atthe ione score of the afternoon.

The varsity failed miserably in its attempts to score. They were held for downs repeatedly, due largely to the inability of the forwards to open a hole. The scrub linemen fought with unusual daring and dexterity. Warwick and Thompson being particularly bright stars. Kidd at end for the scrubs made about half the tackles and has proved himself of varsity callier. He will doubtless be seen in action Saturday. Bugg, Chimpbell, Thurman and Oliver composed the backfield of the conquerors of the varsity, the lirat-named starring by his brilliant tackling.

Adherents are somewhat nonplused over the varsity, the first-named starring by his irrillant tackling.

Adherents are somewhat nonplused over the snowing the team has made, especially in the last two games. With at least four lineamen and an end that would shine on elevens of colleges many times larger than Hampden-Skiney, and with a backiell by no means medicore, there were reasons to expect different returns from those that have been wired back to the campus. Some have expressed the opinion that the team is "stale." There is a noticeable lack of alertness and ginger. Coach Bernier has worked faithfully and efficiently over the men, and if they do not deliver no fault can be registered against him.

With Walker still out of the game, Guth-

One Hundred and Forty Minutes of

One Hundred and Forty Minutes of Laughter.

During all the years in which May Irwin has made America laugh, that famous comedienne has had no such vehicle for the exploitation of her cheerful art as "Widow by Proxy."

As presented at the Academy of Music last night by Miss Irwin and her exceilent company, this irresistible farce comedy from the pen of Catherine Chishelm Cushing—who, by the way, also provided Henrietta Crosman with "The Real Thing"—furnished just 140 minutes of helpless laughter, Nor did the semihysterical mirth that prevailed from the beginning of the

in a decade or more.

After the second act there were four or five curtain calls for Miss Irwin—after the house lights went up! And this enthusiasm, quite unusher-led, was due to the fact that the—well, comfortally rounded star bud ether to the fortably rounded star had given to the audience some two hours of wholesome, clean and care-forgetting amusement. There is no use in going into the story. Miss Irwin simply pretends to be a widow when she isn't; but it must be said that the comedy never falters, but grows steadily from climax to climax, and never descends for an instant to the depths of the slap-stick school. Endeavoring to speak without exaggeration, I believe it to be true that during the actual performance there is no period of as long as sixty seconds that is not punctuated by at least one hearty laugh.

Nor is there any need to enlarge upon Miss Irwin—take that as you like. Her innate and cultivated sense of humor,

George Arlins.

George Arliss's play, "Disraell," which will be seen at the Academy Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and Wednesday matines, is a comedy dealing with the most romantic and pleing with the most romantic and plcturesque figure in the entire history of English statesmanship—Benjamin Disraell. The comedy displays the fascinating and compelling personality of the Premier in a deed which will always be looked upon as the crowning achievement of his career, the purchase of the Suez Canal for Great Britain. The entire play, which is in four acts, is woven around this history-making incident. In this play are most interestingly entwined the great scheme of stateeraft, and a pretty love romance between two young aristocrats, who are friends of Disraeli and who are used to the greatest advantage who are used to the greatest advantage in the diplomatic intrigue.
